ABOUT THE CATALOG

---

The publications listed in this catalog are available from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC). These publications describe some of the common hazards associated with the use of consumer products and recommend ways to avoid these hazards. These are in the form of fact sheets, brochures, and materials developed especially for use by classroom teachers. In addition, there are materials about the Commission, its policies, rules and regulations it administers and its annual report to the Congress. Reports of national conferences conducted in the last several years are listed.

Single copies can be requested by writing:

Office of Information and Public Affairs
U.S. Consumer Product Safety
Commission
Washington, D.C. 20207

or by calling our toll-free hotline
1-800-638-CPSC (2772) from anywhere in the continental U.S.

These materials are in the public domain. They may be reproduced in whole or in part without permission and in unlimited quantities. If any publication is reproduced, however, the Commission would appreciate knowing how it is used. Send this information to the Office of Information and Public Affairs, U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207.

ABOUT THE COMMISSION

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission is an independent federal regulatory agency charged with reducing unreasonable risks of injury associated with consumer products used in the home, the school, and in public places. CPSC was established in 1972 to be headed by a Chairman and four Commissioners appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Congress.

To report a hazardous product or product-related injury, call the toll-free hotline. A teletypewriter for the hearing impaired is available on the following numbers: National 1-800-638-8270; Maryland residents only 1-800-492-8104.

Some of the publications listed in the catalog also can be requested from the Commission's Regional Offices:
